Defamation is the publishing of derogatory material that is false and the publisher knows it is false. Publishing proven facts, however unflattering they may be, is not defamation. The website kentmadincyberstalker.com was created and published by Earl de Blonville. Anyone with a Domaintools.org account or other WHOIS analytical service can confirm Earl's original ownership of the URL, in spite of his effort to hide his ownership. The site is rife with anonymous speculation, derogatory claims and melodramatic hogwash, all definitive of actual defamation.
