Earl de Blonville is proud to become an Ambassador for Helly Hansen, one of the world's most respected protective gear and outdoor clothing manufacturers.

Earl has relied professionally on Helly Hansen since the early 1970's, when he was a professional mountaineering instructor in Europe. Through all his expeditions to mountains, deserts and the Arctic, Earl has always used Helly Hansen products.

In 1986, during a 140 knot Arctic winter snowstorm, Helly Hansen literally saved his life, when he survived a week without food or shelter on a sea-swept rock.
